THE PREFACE.

I Am very sensible, the World may, at the first Appearance of this Book, Object against its usefulness, by reason of the many Works of this kind already extant. There are (I confess) a great many, and some few good ones amongst them, but that's no solid Objection against me; for as they took Liberty to improve upon the Antients, so others, by fresh Observations and Experience, may find occasion to supply their Defects, and render their Works more Correct and Useful. How much I have contributed to that purpose, may appear in the using of the Book; But take this brief account of the Method and Design of it.

The first Part of this Vocabulary contains the most usual Nouns, Adnouns, Verbs, and Particles of the Latin Tongue, especially those that are Primitive, and do commonly occur in the Classic Authors. In compiling of which, I have endeavour'd first to make a Right Collection of Words, and then to place every Word in it's natural order; for I cannot be of their Opinion who think, that a parcel of loose Words having no Connection, are a sufficient Vocabulary; Therefore I desire the Reader to

to stop here, and to look over to the beginning of the Vocabulary; where (having read a Page or two of the English, without taking notice of the Latin) he will find the Words so Connected and reduced to such a natural Order, as will, at once, help the Memory and inform the Judgment. By this Method a Boy of the meanest Capacity may easily discover the Gender, Declension, or Conjugation of a Noun or Verb, without the help of the Master, or being obliged to have Recourse to Rules, that he cannot make use of.

The Second Part directs the Scholar, how to express his thoughts, in true Roman Latin, either when he is plying his Lesson, or diverting himself with his Games. The English Sentence is express'd in the plainest Terms imaginable, and the Latin Collected from the true Classic Authors, and when it could not be found there, Recourse has been had to the Learned Erasmus and Vives. This is proposed as the best Method, to prevent Boys speaking Bad Latin, and the easiest way to Teach them to Converse in True Roman Latin: but, whether the performance will answer the design, I leave it to the impartial Reader to Determine.

When shall we go from School?
I think we shall learn all Day.
When shall we go to Dinner?
All the Boys have said almost.
The Catalogue is not read yet.
Every one answer to his Name
Hear, the Master bids us go home.
He hath sent them home to Dinner.
After the School is dismissed.
Well let us go from School.
The Boys are dismist.
The Boys make haste to the Dinning-room.
Let's go streight home.
Go before, I'll follow.
Run faster.
We shall come the sooner back to School.
What School do you go to?
I Learn of one Erasmus.
I heard that he is a great Orator.
He hath deserv'd a Doctorship.
Is he as good at Greek as Latin?
They say so.
I have no Skill in Greek.
He is a very knowing Man.
What Book do you Learn?
Tully's Offices
I have his works nearly bound
One of our School fellows calls me.
Farewell.

At Hand-Ball.

1 WHat Game shall we play at?
2 Hand-Ball is best for Exercise.
3 But it is fitter for Winter than Summer.
4 We shall Sweat less if we play with Rackets.
5 It is better to play with the Hand.
6 What shall we play for?
7 For a Fillip.
8 They that get the three first Games shall gain it.
9 Well agreed, content. (Great.
10 Well then, come choose.
11 Let's draw Cuts.
12 It hath chanced well.
13 It is no matter who are together.
14 Here is one hand.
15 Strike the Ball.
16 Play fair.
17 You are a better Gamester than I.
18 You are excellent at Hand-ball.
19 Come, let's play the Men.
20 We must be careful if we resolve to win.
21 Let every one look to his player.
22 Stand you behind me, and catch the Ball.
23 I will stay (cover my head) behind me.
24 Strike you the Ball back.
25 You do not strike fair, (Strike again.
26 He that strikes without giving warning, must
27 Well, I will strike as you do.
28 If you strike beyond the Line, you lose.
